NARRATIVE PROFESSIONAL BIOGRAPHY

DR. DEAN KRUCKEBERG, APR, FELLOW PRSA

Dr. Dean Kruckeberg, APR, Fellow PRSA, is a tenured full professor in the Department of Communication Studies at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. He was executive director of the Center for Global Public Relations, a service unit in that department, from 2008 to 2013. From 1983 through 2008, Dr. Kruckeberg was a public relations professor in the Department of Communication Studies at the University of Northern Iowa, serving most of those years as coordinator of the Public Relations Degree Program or of the Mass Communication Division. Dr. Kruckeberg is co-author of the book, Public Relations and Community: A Reconstructed Theory, which won the first annual PRIDE Award from the Speech Communication Association Commission on Public Relations (now National Communication Association Public Relations Division), and he is the author and co-author of many book chapters, articles and papers dealing with international public relations and international public relations ethics.

Dr. Kruckeberg is co-author of the 11th (2013), 10th (2010), 9th (2006), 8th (2004), 7th (2000) and 6th (1996) editions of This Is PR: The Realities of Public Relations, which for many years was a major public relations textbook that had a global English edition as well as translation editions in several indigenous languages worldwide and of Transparency, Public Relations, and the Mass Media: Combating the Hidden Influences in News Coverage Worldwide (2017) and of AI-driven threats, strategic communicators and activism: Meeting the challenge (2024). He is co-editor of Strategic Communications in Russia: Public Relations and Advertising (2021) and of Public Relations in the Gulf Cooperation Council Countries (2019). He is co-author of Principles of Public Relations (1994) and of Case Studies in Public Relations (1994), Arabic public relations texts published by United Arab Emirates University Press. He was co-researcher of a two-year study that was released globally in 2003 that ranked 66 countries according to the likelihood that their daily newspaper reporters were seeking or were accepting bribery for editorial coverage. This study received global attention in leading news media worldwide as well as in the professional press, and it marked the beginning of a stream of research about the likelihood journalists' propensity toward bribery in these countries.

Dr. Kruckeberg was awarded the 2021 Gold Anvil for Lifetime Achievement from the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA), and he was recipient of the 2016 National Communication Association Public Relations Division's "PRIDE Award for Outstanding Contribution/Achievement in Public Relations Education." In October, 2013, Dr. Kruckeberg was presented the Atlas Award for Lifetime Achievement in International Public Relations by PRSA, and he was PRSA's 1995 national "Outstanding Educator". He was awarded the Jackson Jackson & Wagner Behavioral Research Prize at the International Conference of the Public Relations Society of America in November 2006. This national award and $1,000 prize recognize individual behavioral science researchers whose scholarly work has enhanced the understanding of the concepts and theories that have contributed to the effectiveness of public relations practice.

Kruckeberg narrative professional biography/2-2-2

Dr. Kruckeberg was the 1997 recipient of the Pathfinder Award that was presented by the Institute for Public Relations, another leading award for public relations research. Professor Kruckeberg also was presented the 1997 State of Iowa Regents Faculty Excellence Award. In fall 1998, Dr. Kruckeberg was awarded the Wartburg College Alumni Citation that recognized his accomplishments as one of the nation's leading public relations educators. In 2011, Dr. Kruckeberg was presented the Infinity Award, the highest award for a public relations professional that is given by the Charlotte Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America. That award honors a public relations professional whose character, career and service represent the highest standards and who excels in the practice of public relations and/or has accomplished an outstanding one-time achievement. In May 2013, he was inducted into Rowan University's Public Relations Hall of Fame.

Dr. Kruckeberg was Co-Chair of the Commission on Public Relations Education from 1997 through 2012. This consortium, which has representatives from major national and international professional and scholarly associations, determines and recommends guidelines for public relations curricula and pedagogy in the United States. Its October 1999 and November 2006 reports were used as benchmarks for public relations curricula and instruction in the United States as well as in several foreign countries. Its report on master's degree education was released at the international conference of PRSA in October 2012.

Dr. Kruckeberg is a Fellow of the Public Relations Society of America (inducted into the Fellows' second cohort in 1990), was 2010 chair of the PRSA International Section and is a member of PRSA's Global Affairs Task Force and was its co-chair in 2022. Dr. Kruckeberg is the lead Academic Advisor of the Inez Y. Kaiser – GKC-PRSA Memorial Scholarship Fund. This is a national scholarship program for People of Color. From 2000 through 2002, he served a two-year term as director-at-large on the executive board of PRSA, a 21,000-member national and international professional association, and Dr. Kruckeberg is a former member of the PRSA Advocacy Advisory Board. He was 1993-94 Midwest District Chair of PRSA; was 1996 national nominating committee member, representing the Midwest District; had served on the executive committee and was newsletter editor of the PRSA International Section; was newsletter editor of the PRSA College of Fellows; is former National Faculty Advisor of the Public Relations Student Society of America (1989-91); and is a former Advisor to Forum, the national newspaper of PRSSA. Dr. Kruckeberg is past Chair of the Public Relations Division of the International Communication Association and is former Head of the Public Relations Division of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication (AEJMC). In 1997, he was one of two candidates for President-Elect of AEJMC, and, from 2012 to 2018, he served as a member of the national Professional Freedom and Responsibility Committee, having been elected to a second three-year term in 2015. He is a past Resolution Chair, Vice Chair and was the 2018 Chair of that national committee, as well as a member of the AEJMC President's Advisory Council and National Board of Directors. Dr. Kruckeberg is a former Chair of the Public Relations Division of the National Communication Association (1993); was 1997 Chair of the PRSA Educators Section (now Academy); was 1997 Co-Chair of the Educational Affairs Committee of PRSA; was a member of the Research and Educational Advisory Board of the Institute for Public Relations; and is an advisory board member of the International Public Relations Research Conference.

Awards and Honors:

The Public Relations Society of America's Board of Ethics and Professional Standards (BEPS) Ethics Journey Workgroup asked me in May 2023 to upload onto its "ethics development" google drive the ethics scholarship that I had performed throughout the decades. I identified 292 articles and presentations, from which BEPS requested 58 articles (I added a few more that I thought would be valuable). I met with the Atkins copyright and licensing librarian to determine which would require permission to upload for an essentially public resource.
